

Membership day Studio open house

Art is not unlike other disciplines, where development thrives upon inspiration and exploration. As stained and fused glass "artletes" we also need a community for support and a place to share, learn and practice. At Glasstronomy Studios we offer various memberships for active glass artists, hobbyists, instructors, and students. Benefits include access to our online members space, discounts on in-Studio workshops, access to social and knowledge sharing events, and more! Join us on Sunday, September 28, 2014, from 2–4 pm, to visit the Studio and learn more about our membership benefits and activities.

Back to school for glass lovers too!

Summer was a blast and we are back fresh and inspired for a packed fall calendar at the Studio. Our professional instructors have created a new season of classes that will appeal to both stained and fused glass enthusiasts and beginners alike. With workshops offered on Thursdays (afternoon and evening), and Saturdays (full and half day), Glasstronomy Studios is the place to be for art glass education and personal development.

Summer camp success

Another summer, another great group of gals and hands down, the coolest glass art you could make at summer camp! This year's adult only camp experience included two vessel experience included two vessel sinks, a giant wall clock, several wall pieces and a sting ray sculpture. Campers challenged themselves designing, constructing and firing large pieces with complexity and dimension. For more on the experience, visit our fan page on Facebook.
